| 1 | BOIES, SCHILLER & FLEXNER LLP | MORGAN, LEWIS & BOCKIUS LLP |
|-----------|---|--|
| 2 | RICHARD J. POCKER (NV Bar No. 3568) 300 South Fourth Street, Suite 800 | THOMAS S. HIXSON (pro hac vice) KRISTEN A. PALUMBO (pro hac vice) |
| 4 | Las Vegas, NV 89101 | One Market, Spear Street Tower |
| 3 | Telephone: (702) 382-7300 | San Francisco, CA 94105 |
| | Facsimile: (702) 382-2755 | Telephone: 415.442.1000 |
| 4 | rpocker@bsfllp.com | Facsimile: 415.442.1001 |
| _ | DOIEC CCITILED & ELEVNED LLD | thomas.hixson@morganlewis.com |
| 5 | BOIES, SCHILLER & FLEXNER LLP WILLIAM ISAACSON (pro hac vice) | kristen.palumbo@morganlewis.com |
| 6 | KAREN DUNN (pro hac vice) | DORIAN DALEY (pro hac vice) |
| Ü | 5301 Wisconsin Ave, NW | DEBORAH K. MILLER (pro hac vice) |
| 7 | Washington, DC 20015 | JAMES C. MAROULIS (pro hac vice) |
| _ | Telephone: (202) 237-2727 | ORACLE CORPORATION |
| 8 | Facsimile: (202) 237-6131 | 500 Oracle Parkway, M/S 5op7 |
| 9 | wisaacson@bsfllp.com | Redwood City, CA 94070 Telephone: 650.506.4846 |
| 9 | kdunn@bsfllp.com | Facsimile: 650.506.7114 |
| 10 | DOIEC COULLED 0 FLEWNED LLD | dorian.daley@oracle.com |
| | BOIES, SCHILLER & FLEXNER LLP STEVEN C. HOLTZMAN (pro hac vice) | deborah.miller@oracle.com |
| 11 | KIERAN P. RINGGENBERG (pro hac vice) | jim.maroulis@oracle.com |
| 10 | 1999 Harrison Street, Suite 900 | |
| 12 | Oakland, CA 94612 | |
| 13 | Telephone: (510) 874-1000 | |
| 10 | Facsimile: (510) 874-1460 | |
| 14 | sholtzman@bsfllp.com kringgenberg@bsfllp.com | |
| 1.5 | Kiniggenoeig@osinp.com | |
| 15 | | |
| 16 | Attorneys for Plaintiffs | |
| | Oracle USA, Inc., Oracle America, Inc., and Oracle International Corp. | |
| 17 | Oracle International Corp. | |
| 18 | UNITED STATES I | DISTRICT COURT |
| 10 | DIGEDICE: O | ENEWADA |
| 19 | DISTRICT O | FNEVADA |
| 20 | ORACLE USA, INC., a Colorado corporation; | Case No. 2:10-cv-0106-LRH-PAL |
| 20 | ORACLE AMERICA, INC., a Delaware | 0.000 1100 2010 01 0100 2101 1112 |
| 21 | corporation; and ORACLE INTERNATIONAL | ORACLE'S OPPOSITION TO |
| | CORPORATION, a California corporation, | RIMINI STREET'S AND SETH |
| 22 | Plaintiffs, | RAVIN'S MOTION TO ADMIT DTX 152, DTX 153, DTX 154B, DTX 164A, |
| 22 | ramans, | DTX 340 AND DTX 345 WITHOUT |
| 23 | v. | REDACTIONS |
| 24 | | |
| | RIMINI STREET, INC., a Nevada corporation; | PUBLIC REDACTED VERSION |
| 25 | AND SETH RAVIN, an individual, | |
| 26 | Defendants. | |
| 26 | | |
| 27 | | |
| 20 | | |
| 28 | | |

Plaintiffs Oracle USA, Inc., Oracle America, Inc., and Oracle International Corporation (collectively, "Oracle") submit this opposition to Defendants' ("Rimini's") motion to admit DTX 152, DTX 153, DTX 154B, DTX 164A, DTX 340 and DTX 345 without redactions.

I. BACKGROUND

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

Oracle has produced numerous documents in this matter that contain statements from Oracle's customers. Some of those customers left Oracle for Rimini, but many others did not and are irrelevant to this case. Rimini included many of these documents on its exhibit list, and Oracle moved in limine to exclude the inadmissible hearsay in these documents. Dkt. 648 at 12:24-16:2. The Court denied the motion "without prejudice," stating that the exhibits "should be addressed on a case-by-case basis at trial." The Court stated that "[a]t this point, the only generalized ruling" it could make was "any direct quoted statements from customers that are being used to prove the truth of the matter asserted . . . are inadmissible hearsay and shall be excluded," and that "statements by Oracle employees that constitute analysis of the customer relationship, which may or may not be based on information the employee receives from the customer, may be admissible if the statements constitute employee party admissions or presentsense impressions." Dkt. 723 at 6:11-24 (emphasis added). The Court did not make any determinations as to whether any specific statements fall into the former, inadmissible category ("direct quoted statements from customers") or the latter, admissible category ("analysis of the customer relationship"). The Court also did not address the large in-between category, where an Oracle employee simply paraphrases information provided by a customer but does not provide any analysis of the customer relationship. Rather, the Court stated that it would make those determinations "at trial when the court is more familiar with the statements and the context for which they are being offered." Id. at 6:22-24.

Rimini now seeks to admit various documents that contain quoted or paraphrased statements from Oracle's customers – whether or not they are relevant to this case, including many statements by customers that did not go to Rimini – often including negative statements about Oracle support. Not only do these documents contain customer hearsay in the form of statements from customers falling in the category of statements the Court has ruled inadmissible,

1 but much of that hearsay is also irrelevant and unduly prejudicial because it relates to customers 2 that are not even at issue in this case because they did not leave Oracle for Rimini Street or 3 because they were not licensees of the relevant Oracle products. Further, at this point in the trial when all of Oracle's employee witnesses have been questioned and only Oracle's damages 4 5 experts remain, Rimini cannot establish a foundation for these documents or in any way establish 6 that they are relevant to this case. Therefore, consistent with the Court's ruling, Oracle has 7 proposed redactions to these exhibits to eliminate the inadmissible hearsay and irrelevant and 8 unduly prejudicial customer statements. 9 In order to resolve this dispute, the parties have agreed to limit their discussion to a 10 subset of Oracle's proposed redactions in six of the documents that Rimini seeks to admit. Based on the Court's rulings on these exemplar proposed redactions, the parties can then 11 12 extrapolate to any other of Oracle's proposed redactions to these documents that Rimini seeks to 13 admit. 14 II. DISCUSSION Rimini's motion to admit these exhibits without redactions should be denied for three 15 16 reasons. First, the customer comments are unreliable hearsay that Rimini seeks to admit for the 17 truth of the matters asserted. The documents that Rimini seeks to admit are largely 18 19 20 Dkt. 647-1 (Ransom 21 Dep.) at 71:4-17. Oracle had no way of verifying the customer statements' accuracy. 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 The customer statements at issue in these documents are classic examples of unreliable

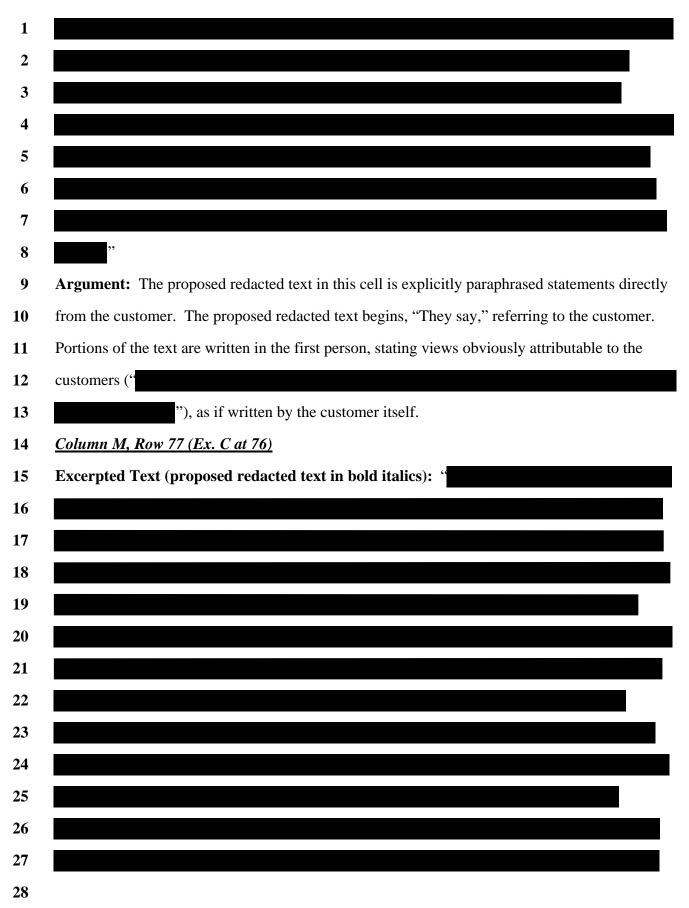

| 1 | customer complaints, and the Court should exclude them from evidence. See Rowland v. Am. |
|----|---|
| 2 | Gen. Fin., 340 F.3d 187, 194-95 (4th Cir. 2003) (customer complaint inadmissible as double |
| 3 | hearsay, even when contained within official records that came within a hearsay exception). |
| 4 | In selecting the customer statements for proposed redaction, Oracle has taken care to |
| 5 | follow the Court's guidance on Oracle's motion in limine regarding customer hearsay and only |
| 6 | proposed redactions for statements that came directly from customers and not statements that |
| 7 | consist of Oracle's analysis of the customer relationship. The hearsay issues relevant to the |
| 8 | exemplar statements are discussed in detail below. |
| 9 | Second, for many of the proposed redactions, the customer statements are irrelevant and |
| 10 | unduly prejudicial because the negative statements relate to non-Rimini customers or to |
| 11 | customers on products that are not at issue in this case. For example, in one of the exemplars, |
| 12 | Column M, Row 77 of DTX 154B, the customer at issue is |
| 13 | not a relevant customer in this case. See Dkt. 523 at 8:23-17:23. In another example, page 2 of |
| 14 | DTX 340 contains a statement by customer concerning why it dropped |
| 15 | support " ." Hixson Decl., Ex. E. Rimini quotes this statement |
| 16 | prominently in its brief (Motion at 3), but not only is True Value Company not a Rimini |
| 17 | customer, Oracle's Retail software is not a product line at issue in this case. Between them, |
| 18 | DTX 154B and 171B contain literally hundreds of hearsay statements by customers that did not |
| 19 | go to Rimini and have nothing to do with this lawsuit. Rimini is trying to admit huge piles of |
| 20 | obviously irrelevant hearsay purely for its prejudicial effect. |
| 21 | Third, Rimini has failed to establish a foundation for the statements at issue in these |
| 22 | documents. At this point in the trial, Oracle's only remaining witnesses are its damages experts. |
| 23 | Rimini has failed to introduce these documents with an Oracle decision-maker to establish |
| 24 | relevance or foundation. Right now they are just unexplained spreadsheets or PowerPoints with |
| 25 | no foundational testimony to show how they were created, who received them, or how they were |
| 26 | used. Rimini argues in its motion that the customer statements at issue are not really statements |
| 27 | by the customers but analysis by Oracle employees of the customer relationship, but there is no |
| 28 | evidence at trial or otherwise to establish that this is actually true. Admission of these |

| proposed by Oracle for DTX 152 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted in Ex. Column AH, Row 4 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "" Argument: | docur | nents without Oracle's proposed reductions would introduce unreliable hearsay that is |
|--|--------------|---|
| A. DTX 152 (Hixson Decl., Ex. A) DTX 152 is a The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redactions proposed by Oracle for DTX 152 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted in Ex. Column AH, Row 4 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text mere reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | irrele | vant and unduly prejudicial and lacks sufficient foundation. |
| The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redactions proposed by Oracle for DTX 152 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted in Ex. Column AH, Row 4 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "" Argument: | III. | EXEMPLARS |
| The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redactions proposed by Oracle for DTX 152 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted in Ex. Column AH, Row 4 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: "  | | A. DTX 152 (Hixson Decl., Ex. A) |
| proposed by Oracle for DTX 152 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted in Ex. Column AH, Row 4 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "" Argument: | | DTX 152 is a |
| Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | | The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redactions |
| Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " " Argument: The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | propo | sed by Oracle for DTX 152 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted in Ex. A |
| The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | Colur | nn AH, Row 4 (p.4) |
| The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | Exce | rpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | | |
| The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | | |
| The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | | ,, |
| The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | Angu | monte |
| indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | Aigu | ment. |
| indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | | |
| indicate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merel reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | | |
| reports hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: Argument: | | The repeated statements "they believe" and "they feel" |
| is not a party admission or a present sense impression. Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | indica | ate that the Oracle employee is recording the statements of others. The quoted text merely |
| Column AH, Row 10 (p.4) Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | report | s hearsay and contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore it |
| Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: | is not | a party admission or a present sense impression. |
| Argument: | Colur | nn AH, Row 10 (p.4) |
| Argument: | Exce | rpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | |
| | | " |
| | Argu | ment: |
| | 3 | Why that company left Oracle support has no relevance |

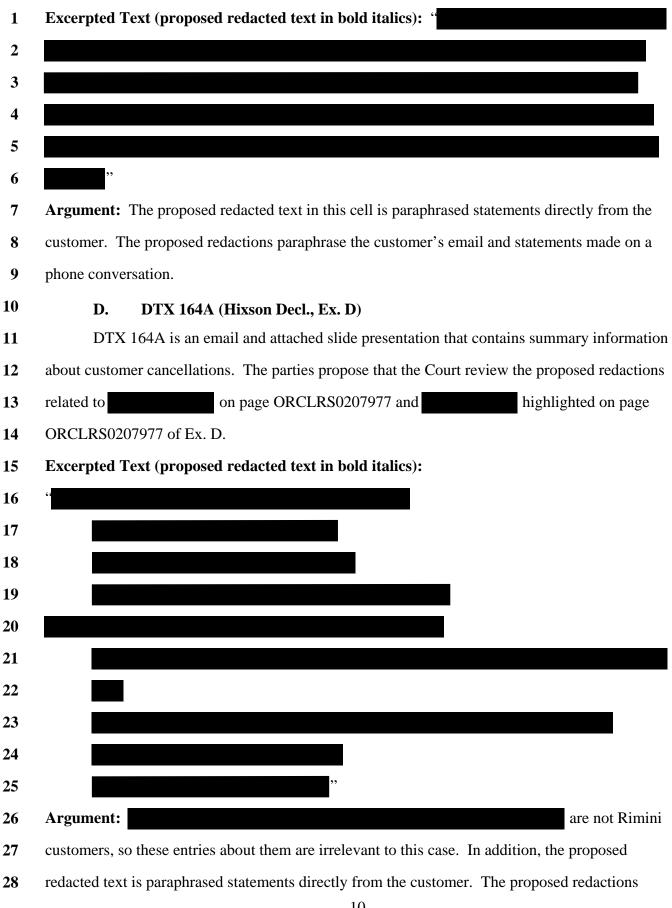

| 1 | at all to this case. Further, Oracle proposes to redact the bolded text in this cell because it is |
|----|--|
| 2 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer made at a meeting with the customer's |
| 3 | controller. |
| 4 | These statements are preceded and |
| 5 | followed by what is arguably an analysis of the customer relationship, but the material in the |
| 6 | proposed redactions merely reports hearsay. |
| 7 | Column AH, Row 15 (p.4) |
| 8 | Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| 9 | |
| 10 | |
| 11 | |
| 12 | " |
| 13 | Argument: The text in this cell is paraphrased statements directly from the customer apparently |
| 14 | made at a meeting with the customer on 12/21/2005. The proposed redacted text contains |
| 15 | information that Oracle could only have heard from the customer, such as what the customer |
| 16 | "wants." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. |
| 17 | Column AH, Row 18 (p.4) |
| 18 | Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| 19 | |
| 20 | |
| 21 | |
| 22 | |
| 23 | |
| 24 | |
| 25 | |
| 26 | |
| 27 | " |
| 28 | |

| an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for | Argument: | The bolded text in this cen is paraphrased statements directly from the customer. |
|---|---------------|---|
| B. DTX 153 (Hixson Decl., Ex. B) DTX 153 is a slide presentation that appears to be a training deck for the Oracle sales organization. The first few pages of the slide deck provide guidance on Page 25 of the presentation contains an example of an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page ORCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | The propose | d redacted text contains information that Oracle could only have heard from the |
| B. DTX 153 (Hixson Decl., Ex. B) DTX 153 is a slide presentation that appears to be a training deck for the Oracle sales organization. The first few pages of the slide deck provide guidance on Page 25 of the presentation contains an example of an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page ORCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "" Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | customer, su | ch as what the customer plans to do and what "they are basically telling us." The |
| DTX 153 is a slide presentation that appears to be a training deck for the Oracle sales organization. The first few pages of the slide deck provide guidance on Page 25 of the presentation contains an example of an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page ORCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | proposed rec | lactions are inadmissible hearsay. |
| Page 25 of the presentation contains an example of an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for . The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page ORCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "" Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | В. | DTX 153 (Hixson Decl., Ex. B) |
| Page 25 of the presentation contains an example of an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for . The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page ORCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | DTX | 153 is a slide presentation that appears to be a training deck for the Oracle sales |
| an "Executive Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to send to management to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for . The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page DRCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | organization | . The first few pages of the slide deck provide guidance on |
| The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page DRCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "" Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | Page 25 of the presentation contains an example of |
| The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction propose by Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page DRCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | n "Executiv | ve Summary," which is a form Oracle sales renewal representatives can fill out to |
| or Oracle for DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page DRCLRS0175460 of Ex. B): Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): "Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | end to man | agement to obtain approval. Page 25 has an example of an Executive Summary for |
| Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | . The parties propose that the Court rule on the following redaction proposed |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | y Oracle fo | r DTX 153 (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is highlighted at Bates page |
| resentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed edacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | ORCLRS01 | 75460 of Ex. B): |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | Excerpted T | Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training presentation is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | |
| example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text on this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | | " |
| example could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text in this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | Argument: | This text is irrelevant. There is no indication that this example in the training |
| In this cell would consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | presentation | is real. In context, this document is clearly being used for training purposes; the |
| edacted text reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the proposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | exam | ple could be made up for training purposes. Assuming this example is real, the text |
| croposed redactions are inadmissible hearsay. C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | n this cell w | ould consist of paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed |
| C. DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | edacted tex | reports what the customer "expressed" and what it "suggested." Therefore, the |
| DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | proposed rec | lactions are inadmissible hearsay. |
| DTX 154B is a spreadsheet recording data related to communications with customers | C. | DTX 154B (Hixson Decl., Ex. C) |
| From the 2005-2006 timeframe. The parties propose that the Court review the following | DTX | |
| | from the 200 | 05-2006 timeframe. The parties propose that the Court review the following |
| | | |

| 1 | redactions proposed by Oracle for DTX 154B (the text that Oracle proposes to redact is |
|--|---|
| 2 | highlighted in Ex. C): |
| 3 | Column M, Row 6 (Ex. C at 63) |
| 4 | Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| 5 | |
| 6 | |
| 7 | |
| 8 | ,, |
| 9 | Argument: The proposed redacted text in this cell is paraphrased statements directly from the |
| 10 | customer. |
| 11 | The |
| 12 | proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. |
| 13 | Column M, Row 7 (Ex. C at 63) |
| 14 | Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| 15 | |
| 15 | |
| 15 16 | |
| | |
| 16 | ,,, |
| 16 17 | " Argument: The statements are hearsay. The proposed redacted text in this cell is explicitly |
| 16 17 18 | Argument: The statements are hearsay. The proposed redacted text in this cell is explicitly paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They |
| 16 17 18 19 | |
| 16 17 18 19 20 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They |
| 16 17 18 19 20 21 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They say," referring to the customer. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. |
| 16 17 18 19 20 21 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They say," referring to the customer. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. Column M, Row 31 (Ex. C at 69) |
| 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They say," referring to the customer. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. Column M, Row 31 (Ex. C at 69) |
| 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They say," referring to the customer. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. Column M, Row 31 (Ex. C at 69) |
| 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They say," referring to the customer. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. Column M, Row 31 (Ex. C at 69) |
| 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 | paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redacted text begins, "They say," referring to the customer. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. Column M, Row 31 (Ex. C at 69) |

| " |
|---|
| Argument: This text is irrelevant because it relates to (Ex. C at 14), |
| which is not a Rimini customer. See Dkt. 523 at 8:23-17:23. Further, the proposed redacted text |
| in this cell is explicitly paraphrased or quoted statements directly from the customer. The |
| proposed redacted directly quotes the customer multiple times, refers to what the customer |
| requested, communicated, felt, and wanted. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay |
| Column M, Row 78 (Ex. C at 76) |
| Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| |
| |
| |
| " |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant because the customer at issue – (Ex. C at |
| 14) is not a Rimini customer. See Dkt. 523 at 8:23-17:23. In addition, the proposed redacted |
| text in this cell is paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redaction |
| describes what the customer "wrote," and paraphrases the customer's response to Oracle's email. |
| Column M, Row 92 (Ex. C at 77) |
| Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): " |
| |
| |
| ,, |
| Argument: This text is irrelevant because the customer at issue – (Ex. C |
| at 15) is not a Rimini customer. See Dkt. 523 at 8:23-17:23. In addition, the proposed redacted |
| text in this cell is paraphrased statements directly from the customer. The proposed redaction |
| describes how the customer felt, conveying statements that only could have come from the |
| customer. |
| Column M. Row 129 (Ex. C at 83) |

1 paraphrase statements that the customers must have made to Oracle, such as what the customer's "intention" was, what the customer could "justify," or what the customer "needs" or how the 2 3 customer is "uncertain." The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay. 4 E. DTX 340 (Hixson Decl., Ex. E) 5 DTX 340 is an Oracle email containing approval requests. The parties propose that the 6 Court review the proposed redactions related to highlighted on page 7 ORCLRS0703290 of Ex. E. 8 Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 Argument: This text is irrelevant because is not a Rimini customer and Oracle's Retail software is not a product line at issue in this case. In addition, the proposed 18 19 redacted text is paraphrased statements directly from the customer explaining why the customer 20 canceled Oracle support and the customer's related feelings. 21 F. DTX 345 (Hixson Decl., Ex. F) DTX 345 is a slide presentation regarding Global Support Cancellations. The parties 22 23 propose that the Court review the proposed redactions highlighted at Bates pages 24 ORCLRS0707449 (Ennis) and ORCLRS0707457 (Sysmex) of Ex. F. 25 Excerpted Text (proposed redacted text in bold italics): 26 27 28

| 1 | |
|----|--|
| 2 | |
| 3 | ,, |
| 4 | Sysmex: " |
| 5 | |
| 6 | |
| 7 | ,, |
| 8 | Argument: Both of the above entries are irrelevant because neither |
| 9 | Rimini customers. See Dkt. 523 at 8:23-17:23. They have nothing to do with this case. In |
| 10 | addition, the proposed redacted text is paraphrased statements directly from the customers |
| 11 | explaining why the customers canceled Oracle support and the customer's related "thoughts," |
| 12 | "plans," and "decisions" for its business. The proposed redacted text merely reports hearsay and |
| 13 | contains no analysis of the customer relationship by Oracle, and therefore it is not a party |
| 14 | admission or a present sense impression. |
| 15 | IV. CONCLUSION |
| 16 | For the foregoing reasons, the Court should deny Rimini's motion and order the |
| 17 | redactions that Oracle has proposed. |
| 18 | |
| 19 | Dated: September 24, 2015 |
| 20 | MODGAN LEWIG & DOCKING LLD |
| 21 | MORGAN, LEWIS & BOCKIUS LLP |
| 22 | By: /s/ Thomas S. Hixson Thomas S. Hixson |
| 23 | Attorneys for Plaintiffs Oracle USA, Inc., |
| 24 | Oracle America, Inc. and Oracle International Corporation |
| 25 | |
| 26 | |
| 27 | |
| 28 | |